

FUNCTIONALITY ORACLE FOR KUBERNETES WORKLOAD

Can you security harden an application without breaking it?

Kubernetes provides extensive mechanisms to restrict workload permissions at runtime, but applying these settings often leads to subtle failures.

Developers are left without clear feedback on whether their applications remain functional after hardening. Manual testing is costly and does not scale across diverse workloads.

Can we automate the validation of application functionality ?

